A well planned-well produced event might do the trick.

We are ShowTalent. And we know that when you need to do something that separates you from the pack, nothing does the trick like hiring an award winning, experienced, full service production company that truly understands how events flow to change your bottom line. We have been working closely with corporate event and marketing companies here in Colorado for over 25 years, and quite frankly, we watched corporations go from good to great overnight. With one call to us you can rest assured you are in very experienced hands. When planning your corporate event, we can help you communicate your corporate brand, reinforce your corporate message, and in general make you look like a million bucks.

Experience is our bottom line.

Having worked with two U.S. Presidents and many national acts, not to mention countless corporate events – both large and small – we truly understand how events flow. Your event will be a reflection on you and your company. More importantly, we will help make your event one that will enhance the integrity of your corporate vision while leaving a lasting impact on your guests at the same time. That's why so many corporate event planners turn to us first. They know we mean business.

Doing it right, right from the start.

There are no "do-over's" in the event business. That's why we use only cutting-edge audio, video and lighting equipment, while also incorporating back-up procedures for that important safety net. Which means you are ensured perfect delivery of all our services. And we can apply our creativity and expertise in producing your event no matter what kind of event you have, all with a level of sophistication that is required to help you compete in today's corporate environment.

On-Line Event Management

There's not a corporation alive today, or a corporate event planner who has time for communication delays. We know this. We feel the same way. With your own secure on-line ShowTalent Client Access code, you will have constant, up-to-the-minute ability to access your event information where you can upload planning forms, search our database of over 50,000 songs, make last minute changes and additions as well as stay in constant communication with us. You even have the ability to include music requests from employees, a tool that helps make your entire company part of your events success.

As with all rainmakers, we have a list of talents to offer you.

Just in case you were wondering, our services and production talents run deep.
